AN ENTRANCE TO THE CARTOON ECOSYSTEM

Pitching your project at Springboard is a unique opportunity to receive sound advice from international experts, giving young talents all the keys they need to build their creations. As CARTOON strives to keep a close eye on the lives of its various projects and young talents, it's also worth noting that projects pitched at Springboard have a greater chance of being selected for Cartoon Movie and Cartoon Forum events. Since the event was created, 38 projects have been pitched at Cartoon Forum or Cartoon Movie after being presented at Cartoon Springboard.

FOCUS ON SOME OF THE PROJECTS

The selection of projects has been made by a committee of experts and reflects the diversity of European animation production. The animated projects selected are very diverse in terms of the animation techniques used (3D, 2D, stop-motion, etc.), the target audience (from upper pre-schoolers to adults), and the topics tackled. This year the list includes 22 projects from 11 different countries.

But the three girls face hostility from locals and a media war led by Louise's powerful parents, determined to shut the school down. Surrounded by eccentric classmates and unlikely allies, they discover that magic isn't the real threat. It's a reflection of difference, identity, and the messy path to acceptance. - » Country: Italy

When the Museum closes, artworks come to life... And that is when a red rectangle in a Mondrian painting breaks free from its shape to become what it feels it really is: a yellow dot - Puntino! In this new form, Puntino jumps out of the canvas, free to explore the world beyond the frame. A new journey into Art begins. Yet outside lies a vast, colourful, and unpredictable reality where anything can happen. What if Puntino is chased by a super-speedy Futurist dog, jumps away, slips on a banana peel, and falls right into Arcimboldo's Winter ear! Or maybe, it could dive in the Sicilian sea, swimming among fish and boats, and somehow resurface in a cold lake in the Alps, this time surrounded by... cows and sheep. There is so much to discover... But time is running out and the Museum is about to reopen. Will Puntino get back into its painting before the sun rises?

Seven years after civilization collapsed due to a bug in all robots' chips, androids have gone mad. It started with a domestic robot changing the turkey's diaper and putting the baby in the oven, but eventually they all kept doing their tasks in twisted and dangerous ways.

One day, a mail-delivery robot finds a torn diary page telling the story of William, a programmer on his way to the Tax Office with form 1-14-1, a document that could reset all robots and give humanity a chance to rebuild, and come back to the good old world they once knew. Who would have guessed that the only way to save civilization was through bureaucracy ?

Along the way, William will meet survivors with whom he'll go off track: a bread-factory heist, a sunset to admire, a castle of mad medical robots. Each encounter makes him wonder: should he continue towards his goal, bring back society, and honor his legacy, or stop everything to roast marshmallows on the roadside and watch the carrots grow ?

Lido

- » Target Audience: Teenagers 12-15
- » Country: Germany

Their whole life, Tuan and Felix have been training to become professional high divers, sacrificing their bodies and childhood along the way. All for the dream of one day competing at the Olympics together. But as they get older and the pressure rises, they start to lose sight of what they once wanted – and also of each other. Their deep friendship – and also budding love – turns into bitter rivalry. And when they finally meet each other at the World Cup of High Diving, their whole life changes with just one dive...

Lido is inspired by the lives of real high divers and sacrifices they make. But it's not a sports film; it tells the story of wrongly putting the expectations of others before your own emotions. It's the story of crumbling under the pressure of mentors who are convinced they're acting in your best interest. And it's the story of two young adults, trying to find their place in the world – and with each other.
